

Nasr Ghaleb (7Justice)

One cold, chilly morning Stark was called by the police "staaaaark," called his mum, "can you please come down."

"Coming!" Stark said running down the stairs. A muscly policeman was sitting with Stark's dad. "Hello Stark, my name is police John you could just call me John,"

"o-okay," said Stark, "why is the police in our home?"

"let me explain," replied John, "a few weeks ago we realised that you are always upset coming back from school, isn't that right,"

"yeah," Stark said nervously.

"Can you explain why?" questioned John.

"It's just that people are bullying me at school for just what I wear and that we are middle classed, and that they are richer than me," explained Stark

"I am really sorry, if you want me or any other police to help just come to us at the police station, okay," said John, "gotta go, see you soon."

"O-O-Okay," replied Stark.

The next morning but it was a school day. Stark was not excited, then he remembered what John has told him. Stark was a young teenaged boy, curly, medium sized hair and he not short but not tall. As he walked into the building, he looked over his shoulder to see his bully (James Clade). Well, he was stronger, taller but not as clever. "Nice seeing you here bright and early," said James.

"Shut up," said Stark moodily. Stark ran towards his class James followed him, but they weren't in the same form. Stark was confused why he had followed him. He made it to the room "Just in time," said Mr Peterson "have a seat."

The day went quickly, and Stark was heading home and this time he was happy because James wasn't there to bother him as he got detention for not bringing his homework. Stark turned on his phone and seen a message from his mother. His father has choked in his work and passed away. Stark ran as fast as he could.

"where is he, where is he?" questioned Stark. His mother crying, "they took him to hospital."

He wanted to go but he wasn't allowed. Stark and his mother were crying for hours.

A few years went by and Stark was preparing for his GCSE's. Business studies, French and Science were his main options. His mother was more excited for him because he will pass as he is very intelligent and studied every day. One day Stark was coming back from tuition and found an unusual ball. When he picked it up, he realised that it was money. He sprinted back to his mother. She was very pleased for money as she was due on BILLS.

"We can finally pay now !!!!! let's count is," shouted his mother.

"Sorry mum, but we are not thieves, we have to give it to the police," replied Stark

"That's my boy," said his mother.

The next day he put the money into a bag and headed off to the police station. He waited for a police officer and he recognise one, IT WAS POLICE JOHN!

"Hello Stark, wondering why you came, is everything okay?" asked John

"Yeah," said Stark, "just came in because I have found money on the floor."

"Come into my office," said John. They both went inside, and Stark explained everything. John told him to leave the money with him and will call him if he found any information. And that's what he did, a few days later stark was called by John. He said, "we didn't find anything, so we want to give the money to you as there wasn't any fingerprints but yours."

"Thank you buy," replied Stark, "MUUUUM we could keep the money, and he said it was £1000000,"

His mother came rushing in, "WHAT!!!!!" said his mother very happy.

"We have half the mount I will save mine for my business," said Stark.

"Thank God," replied his mother.

A few years past and Stark was the most famous businessman in the UK. Well James was not as rich as he failed his GCSE's, failed his A-LEVELS and didn't get a high degree. Stark lived happily with his mum in his huge mansion.